Hi! It's me, Steve. Guess what? It snowed last night!
Would you like to help us find things to do on a snowy day? You would? Great!

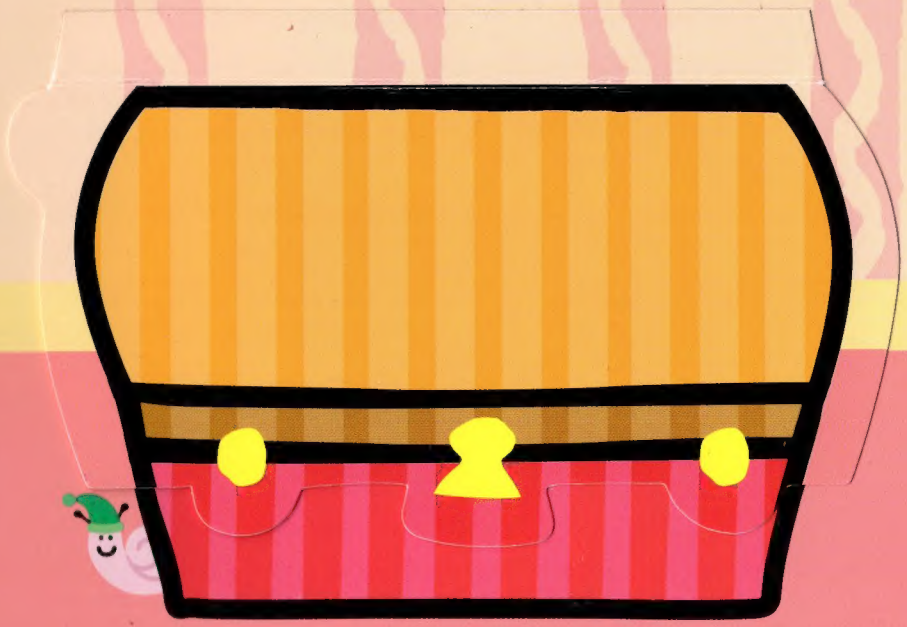
Blue and Magenta, you want to play Blue's Clues? That's a great idea! We'll play Blue's Clues to figure out what Blue's favorite winter treat is! Keep your eyes out for Blue's pawprints. They will be on the clues.

That was a healthy winter breakfast!
Now let's get dressed for our snowy day.
What warm things do we already have on?
Will you find something woolly for us to wear
on top of our heads, around our necks,
and covering our hands?



What color is your winter jacket?
What winter clothes are we wearing?

Good job! Now we're warm and toasty! Hey, look at the funny shapes in the snow! Could those be Blue's toys that were left out in the snowstorm last night? How many snowy shapes do you see? Can you tell what they are?

Brrr! Winter is c-c-cold.
Can you think of other words to describe winter?

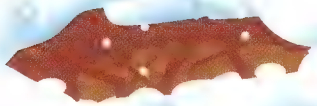
You are good at finding things to do on a snowy day! What else can we do? Do you think we can make things with snow? Hey, Magenta is making something. Do you know what it is? What is Blue doing?

Make a Snowman

1. Pat and roll snow to make three snowballs.
2. Stack the snowballs on top of each other.
3. Decorate your snowman anyway you wish!

Look! Shovel and Pail built a snow house for Blue and Magenta to play in! Does anyone else have a home outside in the winter? What about animals? Can you find three animal homes? Now let's go inside our home and warm up.

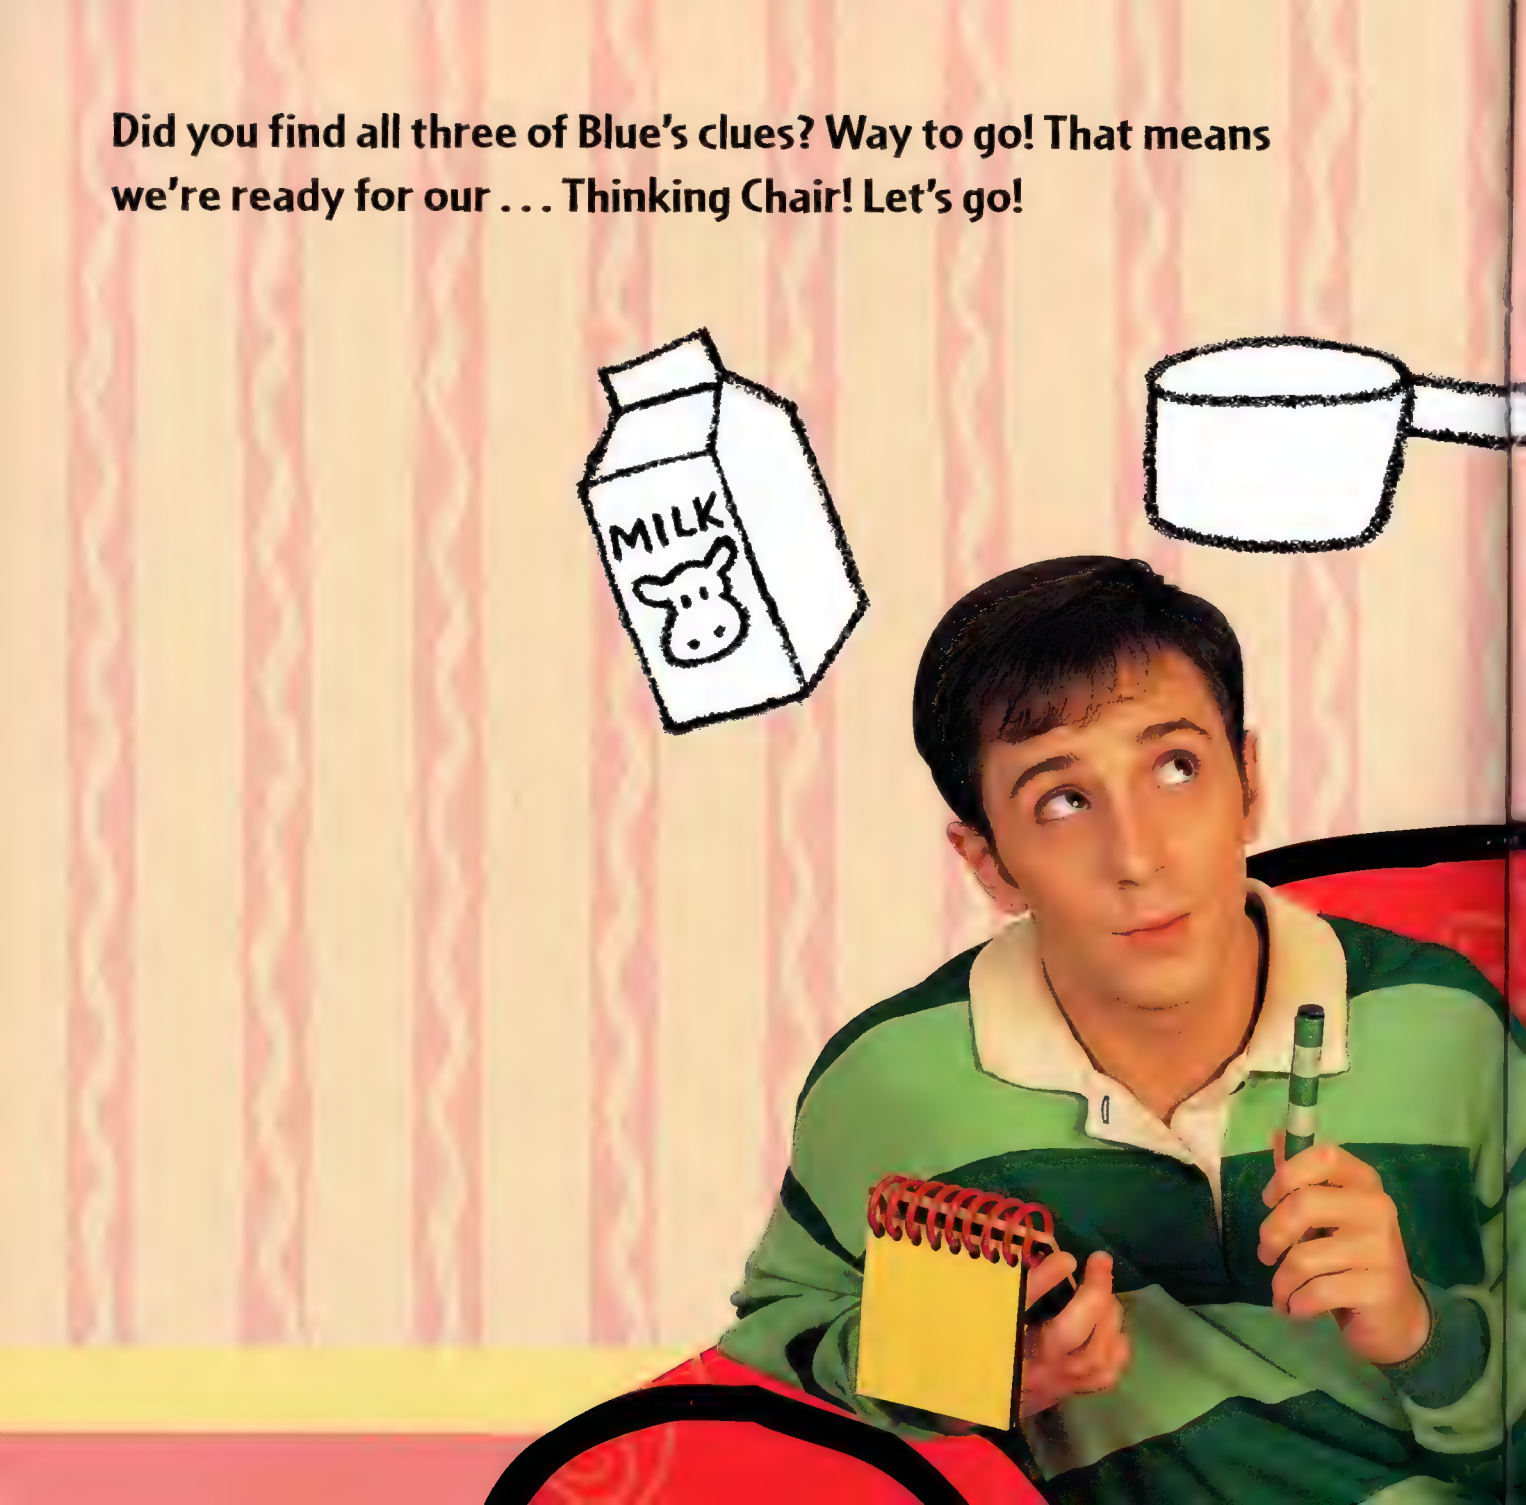


You are amazing! You found a rabbit's burrow, an owl's nest, and a fox's den! Now let's find something to do indoors. What snowy thing can we make with a white sheet of paper?

How to Make a Paper Snowflake

1. Cut a circle from a white sheet of paper.
2. Fold it in half.
3. Fold it in half again.
4. Snip shapes along the edges.
5. Unfold to see your snowflake!

Did you find all three of Blue's clues? Way to go! That means we're ready for our . . . Thinking Chair! Let's go!



Do you remember what our three clues were? A carton of milk, a kitchen pot, and chocolate. So what could be Blue's favorite winter treat that needs milk, a kitchen pot, and chocolate?

Blue wants hot chocolate! You're right! When you mix milk and chocolate in a kitchen pot, you make hot chocolate! Thanks for helping us figure out Blue's Clues! And thanks for helping us find things to do on a snowy day.

Note to Parents from Creators

The Blue's Clues thinking-skills curriculum empowers children in two ways: It allows them to voice their opinions and helps them to solve problems on their own. There are many different games throughout this book, and you and your child will discover a new game each time you read it. These games help children learn specific skills such as patterning, associations, attributes, and relational concepts.

Based on the TV series Blue's Clues® created by Traci Paige Johnson, Todd Kessler, and Angela C. Santomero as seen on Nick Jr.® On Blue's Clues, Steve is played by Steven Burns.
